

Truman Cuts Vacation Short To Work On His Message To Congress

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's opening message to the new Congress may hang an emergency label on some "fair deal" proposals but lawmakers generally hope it will stick to international issues.

Mr. Truman cut short his Christmas vacation at Independence, Mo., to get down to work on his state of the union message, and two other messages to the 82nd Congress.

The president is due back late today, a day earlier than planned. After conferences with his defense chiefs, Mr. Truman is to start drafting his program for the legislators.

His state of the union message probably will deal at length with the situation in Korea and efforts to help Western Europe rearm.

But lawmakers won't be surprised if the president dusts off parts of the program he has recommended to Congress before and suggests they are needed to strengthen the nation's defenses.

One senator said, for instance, that Mr. Truman might ask for action on the controversial Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) issue, on the grounds that racial discrimination weakens the defense production effort.

Not many lawmakers believe, however, that the president will press seriously for enactment in the present crisis of compulsory health insurance. That would not necessarily keep him from telling Congress he believes it would be good to have.

President Truman voiced the general feeling in a brief statement from his home in Independence, Mo., where he celebrated the holiday quietly with his family.

"This saving of our men in this isolated beachhead is the best Christmas message I ever had," the president said.

The general spirit of solemnity was reflected in the annual Christmas message of King George VI, broadcasting to Britons all over the world.

Many Won't Return
In many homes the customary rejoicing was muted by the knowledge that sons, husbands or fathers—fallen before the advancing Communist host in Korea—would never return.

For others, however, there was a measure of cheer in the announcement that more than 100,000 men fighting with the U. N. forces had been brought out successfully Christmas eve from a Red trap in northeast Korea.

Detroit Found Beaten With Ax

DETROIT — (AP) — Beaten with an ax and apparently left for dead, an unidentified middle-aged man lay in critical condition in Wayne County General hospital today.

His skull was fractured and there were deep wounds on the head and shoulders. His hands, feet and face had been frozen.

A Detroit couple out househunting Christmas afternoon discovered the man lying unconscious in the snowy field in Redford township. The temperature was 15 degrees.

Police began an investigation. The victim, about 50, has dark hair and skin and officers said he may be of Mexican descent. He is five feet eight inches tall and weighs 180 pounds.

He was wearing heavy work clothing. The name "Nickie" was embroidered with yellow yarn on a thick brown shirt.

The man wore no shoes but two pairs of heavy socks. Police noted the socks were dry, and theorized the victim was attacked elsewhere and thrown unconscious from a car. Bruises and gashes on his hands and arms indicated he put up a fight to defend himself.

No papers or money were found in his pockets. Police had only his fingerprints and a few laundry marks on the clothing to use in trying to find his identity and track down the assailant.

Accidents Take Lives Of 664 Over Holiday

Michigan Counts 25 Traffic Victims

(By The Associated Press)

The nation counted a staggering death toll of 664 today from violent accidents over the three-day Christmas holiday.

Traffic fatalities soared to above 500, the highest since the all-time record of 555 in 1936. Mishaps on the highways—many ice-coated and others made slippery by freshly falling snow—killed 515 persons. That was more than 100 above the 1949 Christmas holiday toll.

Far Above Estimate

Accidents from miscellaneous causes—fires, drownings, falls, etc.—took an additional 149 lives. The grim total, one of the largest for any three day holiday period, covered the 78 hours from 6 p. m. Friday to last midnight. Last year's total for the Christmas holiday was 530, including 167 in a variety of accidents.

The traffic toll was far above the national safety council's estimate of 440, which was the highest it ever had predicted for the extended Christmas holiday.

Los Angeles Tops List

California, Texas, New York and Illinois led the nation in accidental deaths. There were more than 1,000 auto mishaps in Los Angeles alone, with a death toll of 11 and 900 injured. Police arrested 362 drunken drivers.

There were tragedies from other accidents. Six elderly men perished last night in a fire in a four-story hotel near the downtown district of Buffalo, N. Y.

In Paris, Texas, four small children drowned when an old boat hit a sandbar and sank in the Red river. The children had gone to the river on a Christmas afternoon outing.

(By The Associated Press)

The Christmas holidays brought violent, tragic death to 29 persons in Michigan.

Twenty-five died in traffic accidents. Three burned to death. Another walked into the side of a moving train.

The three-day toll was far above that of the same 1949 holidays, when 17 were killed.

All but three of the deaths this year occurred before midnight Sunday.

Boy Held In Killing Mother Of His Pals On Christmas Day

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — A 19-year-old boy has been charged with murder in the Christmas day slaying of the 63-year-old mother of two of his pals.

Police quoted Patrick Eugene Thomas as saying: "Something happened that I just don't recall that snapped my mind, and I attacked—with a knife first."

Then, officers said he added, he began beating his friends' mother, Mrs. Marie Z. Moriarty, with a rolling pin.

Thomas lives near the Moriarty home. Police said he told them he was alone with Mrs. Moriarty waiting for her sons to come home. He and two of her three sons, William, 20, and Bernard, 22, had separated after leaving a neighborhood house party.

Thomas was arrested after his half-brother, Melvin Samples, reported finding a blood-stained rolling pin and knife in an alley near their home.

Legion Collecting Toys For Europe

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American Legion starts collecting a "tide of toys" today for Europe's needy children.

Last year American Legion posts wrapped up 3,000,000 playthings.

Particularly wanted are sturdy toys that'll stand up under a long sea journey. Not wanted are electrically-powered toys and war toys.

Crusade For Peace Calls For Prayers

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — Roman Catholics throughout the world learned today they will be expected to increase their prayers—particularly prayers for peace of the world—to gain the benefits of the extension of Holy Year.

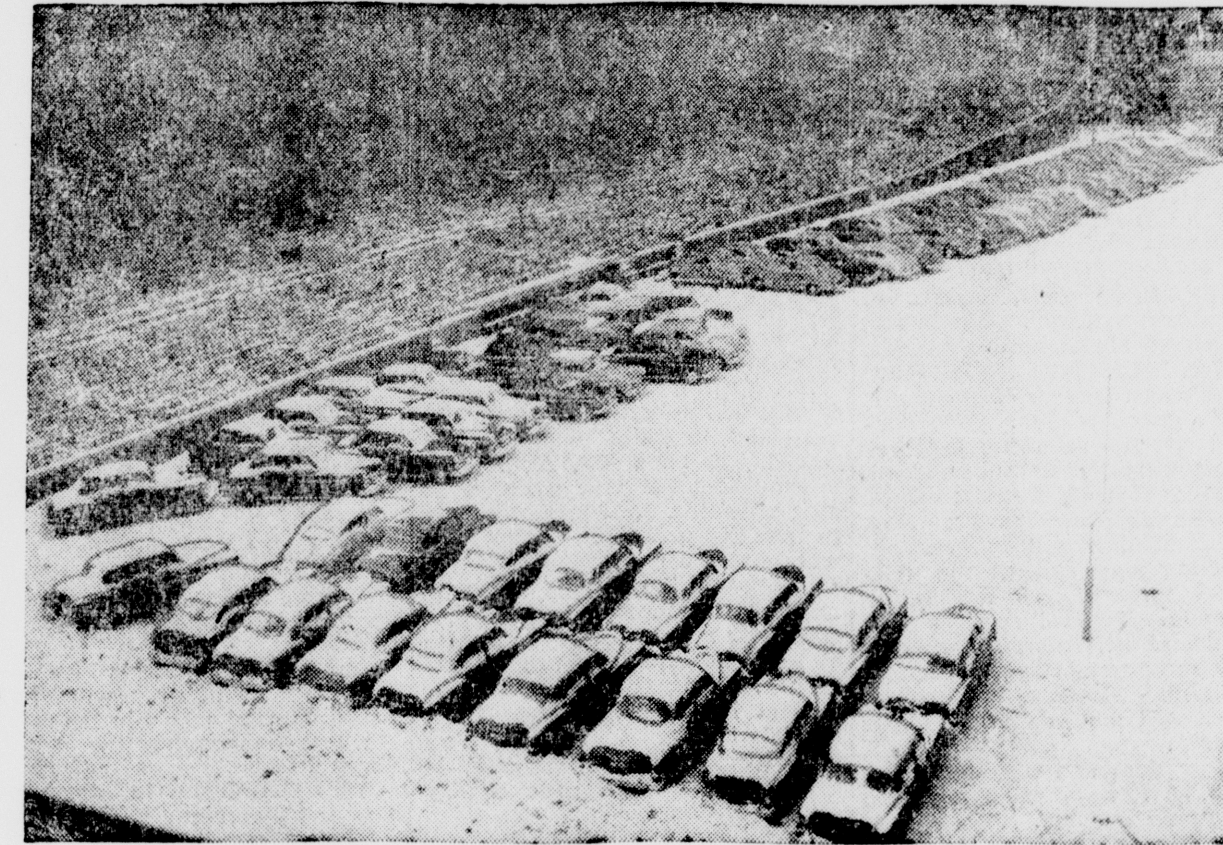

The Papal bull extending Holy Year through 1951 for the world's Catholics, was signed by Pope Pius XII yesterday, Christmas day, after the closing of the 1950 "anno santo." The bull, entitled "per Annum Sacrum," was published today by L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper.

As the 25th Holy Year of the church ended—in many ways it was the greatest jubilee in the history of the church—the Pope faced a trying period which would be devoted largely to his continued crusade for peace.

Called the "Pope of Peace," the Pontiff has seen little of it since he ascended St. Peter's throne March 2, 1939. The "Rainbow of Peace" for which he and millions of pilgrims to Rome prayed throughout 1950 failed to materialize and instead, the Pope warned in his Christmas message, mankind faces disension which reaches to "the ends of the earth."

The 1950 jubilee drew 4,000,000 Catholics to Rome to gain the Holy Year's spiritual benefits. To achieve those benefits in 1951, the Papal bull said, Catholics throughout the world must say more prayers and must especially invoke the intercession of the Virgin Mary. The crowning event of the 1950 Holy Year was the proclamation as Dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin bodily into Heaven.

Britain's Scone Stone Stolen

Scotland Yard Hunts Priceless Relic

By JOHN RODERICK

LONDON — (AP) — Border road-blocks divided England and Scotland today as Scotland yard and police pressed a nationwide search for Britain's priceless stone of scone—stolen from Westminster Abbey Christmas day.

Working on the theory that extreme Scottish nationalists were behind the theft of the flat, rectangular stone on which British and Scottish Kings have been crowned since the days of the Celts, police in England's northern counties searched automobiles heading north.

The historic royal symbol was sneaked out of the dusty old Abbey in the darkness of early morning. The thieves broke a large splinter off one leg of the ancient wooden coronation throne, when they dragged the 336-pound slab from its shelf under the seat.

Police surmised the thieves attended a Christmas eve service in the Abbey, concealed themselves in a side chapel, then removed the stone. So skillful was their get-away that detectives and police were without a clue after an intensive day's hunt.

Woman Goes Berserk In Hollywood Home Of Star Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — A woman forced her way into the home of Errol Flynn, chased a maid, hurled barbecue furniture into a swimming pool and generally upset the place, police reported today.

The maid, Mrs. Julie Miller, telephoned police last night. Officers W. R. Beck and L. E. Harvey hurried to the scene. They said that when they arrived at the mansion, the woman charged Black with a hoe but tripped and fell.

They said her cryptic explanation was "Flynn has been bothering me and my daughter for three years."

She carried no cards of identification and the officers booked her on suspicion of burglary under the name of Jane Doe.

Attorney General's Assistant To Resign And Enter Law Firm

LANSING — (AP) — Assistant Attorney General Peter E. Bradt said today he would resign from state employment Jan. 15 to enter the law firm of his ex-chief, former attorney general Eugene F. Black at Port Huron.

Politicians speculated that Bradt's resignation resulted from the news that Arthur T. Iverson of Detroit would be deputy attorney general after Jan. 1 but Bradt said his association with Black had been under discussion for a long time.

Bradt, who was deputy under Black, was closely allied with Black's attack on Arthur E. Sumnerfield, Republican national committeeman, Iverson and former Governor Wilbur N. Brucker during Black's administration.

Air Force Sets Goal Four Times Stronger

By JAMES J. STREIB Associated Press Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The air force is gearing its emergency mobilization program to a strength four times as powerful as that on hand before Korea.

Undersecretary John A. McCone said today in an interview that this applies clear across the board — to aircraft production, training of men, and bases for men and equipment.

The four-fold size goal could be reached by late 1953 if ordered. The immediate program, to be completed in two years, calls for roughly doubling the number of air force groups, the number of men, and the number of bases in the United States.

Plane Output Boosted

The move toward the doubled air force already is obvious in plane orders; in putting World War II plane plants back into production; in reopening 25 bases since June, and disclosure that air force personnel soon will be more than double the pre-Korea strength of 412,000.

Output of air force combat type planes already has risen to a rate of more than 150 a month from the pre-Korea rate of 110 a month and will be doubled by next December.

But that is only a part of the program. The expansion is being handled in a way that it can be doubled again later on.

So far as aircraft and equipment is concerned, McCone said, this means tooling plants to produce for a volume well in excess of quantities now on order.

Now 84 Groups

McCone said that a plant tooling up for additional production can reach its full capacity far faster than a plant which has to be closed and retooled for added

Three Women Picket Eisenhower, Protest Arming Of Germany

DENVER — (AP) — Protesting against re-arming of Western Germany, three women yesterday picketed the residence where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is spending the holidays.

The women identified themselves as Mrs. Baila Lindauer, Mrs. Lee Wood and Mrs. Susan Clute. They said they admired Eisenhower but were opposed to any move that might restore German military power.

Mrs. Wood said her 19-year-old son is being drafted and "I don't want him to be an ally of the people who butchered so many millions of our people." Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Lindauer are of Jewish faith.

Full Censorship Now Imposed On Korean War News

TOKYO — (AP) — Full censorship is operating now at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea.

Correspondents there were informed today that the five agencies accredited to Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters would be limited to the use of two controlled telephones.

The five news gathering organizations accredited to Eighth Army headquarters are the Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, Reuters and Pan Asia.

Regular Eighth Army briefings have been resumed on a daily basis. After staff officers have given correspondents a fill-in on the military situation they are allowed 30 minutes to write their dispatches and prepare them for censorship. Associated Press Correspondent William Barnard reported.

Limited censorship continues in Tokyo where correspondents covering General MacArthur's headquarters submit copy for clearance but there is no control of communications to the United States.

Michigan In Icy Grip Of Winter

Temperatures Sink To Zero And Lower

(By The Associated Press)

Winter's coldest wave held Michigan in an icy, snowy grip today.

U. S. forecasters say it will hang on through Wednesday, at least, with temperatures sinking to zero and below in Lower Michigan.

On overnight snow blizzards, many of the southern counties, and snow flurries were expected to continue intermittently over most of the state today.

Temperatures tumbled to 15 below zero at Sault Ste. Marie and to 8 below at Pellston overnight. Other lows included: Marquette, 8; Houghton, 1; Alpena, 5; Grand Rapids, 8; Battle Creek and Lansing, 7; Jackson, 8 and Detroit, 10.

Snowfalls measured three inches at Detroit and Battle Creek, Jackson, Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Traverse City got two inches, each. Lansing had one inch.

Detroit indirectly blamed one death to the weather. Otto Yateck, 53, collapsed of a heart attack brought on by over exertion while shoveling snow from his sidewalk.

Crack Rock Island Train Rams Freight; Several Injured

LINEVILLE, Ia. — (AP) — The Rock Island Imperial, crack passenger train bound from Chicago to Kansas City, crashed into the rear end of a long freight, two miles east of here today, injuring several.

Dr. G. F. Davison, Mercer, Mo., was called to the scene of the accident. He said three crewmen were taken to Wright hospital in Trenton, Mo., and two women passengers were treated at the scene for cuts and sprains but were not hospitalized. All the injured were aboard the Imperial.

Witnesses said the Imperial, No. 39, crashed into the rear end of westbound freight No. 91 which apparently was stalled on the track.

The Diesel of No. 39 was tossed on its side in a field alongside the track. It caught fire. Four or five cars of the passenger train left the tracks and piled up. The night telephone operator in Lineville said it appeared they were baggage cars. The caboose and about six boxcars of the freight also piled up.

Reds Warn UN Troops To Get Out Of Country

New U. S. Commander Unites His Forces

TOKYO — (AP) — South Korea and Chinese Communist troops tonight tangled in a fierce battle just south of the 38th parallel and 28 air miles northeast of Seoul, the endangered South Korean capital.

Seoul itself was being rapidly emptied by citizens fleeing the gathering storm of combat.

The clash between Reds and Republic of Korea troops was fought in the Korangpo area, 10 miles east of Kaesong, transportation center on the route from Pyongyang to Seoul.

Patrols Edge Across

Republic of Korea (ROK) force headquarters described the action as "fierce." It also announced that Red patrols were sparring with United Nations forces all along the ROK-held section of the front lines.

The U. S. Eighth Army, guarding the western end of the U. N. defense positions, also reported Communist patrols edging south of the parallel.

The Communists were attempting to determine UN positions. Tense UN forces continued to await a full scale attack by the enemy forces.

While Allied defenders regrouped for battle, new threats came from Red China's high command for all foreign troops to get

Highway Work Lags In 1950

Outlook Not Bright For Coming Year

DETROIT — (AP) — Michigan's highway program cost a total of $29,850,000 in 1950.

But the work completed, Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler said today in an annual report, it was "considerably" less than that of 1949.

He said lack of funds and shortages of materials were responsible for the lagging construction and improvement progress.

Prospects were not bright for bettering that situation in 1951. Ziegler explained that at the start of this year there was $21,000,000 available to the highway department in federal funds, but it had to be matched by the state dollar for dollar.

"During 1950 we were able to match only $10,000,000 of this money," he added.

He also said that Michigan's present income is such that the state probably will not be able to match half of the $25,000,000 in federal money made available for 1951 under a recent act of Congress.

Polio Cases In U.P. Total 39

Escanaba Woman Is Now Recovering

Latest reported polio case in the Upper Peninsula is Mrs. Lloyd Verhagen, 28, of 321 First avenue south, who is now at home recovering from a slight weakness of the left palate.

Her case brought the total number of polios in the Upper Peninsula so far this year to 39, with three of the total from Delta county. Two of the Delta cases were in the city of Escanaba and one was from Wells.

Mrs. Verhagen became ill Dec. 17, was admitted to St. Luke's hospital at Marquette for diagnosis and treatment on Dec. 20, and returned to her home Dec. 24. At the hospital it was reported that the slight weakness of the palate, caused by the polio will disappear.

Of the 39 U. P. cases so far reported in 1950, three were of the dreaded bulbar type and two of three resulted in death. One of the polio deaths was a child from Iron Mountain and the other a child from Gulliver, Schoolcraft county.

Last year a total of more than 100 cases was reported in the Upper Peninsula.

Navy Plans Another Jumbo Size Carrier

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Navy is planning another jumbo size aircraft carrier.

But it will not be quite as large as the huge flush-deck carrier "United States" which was abandoned in the keel-laying stage by order of former Secretary of Defense Johnson.

Vice Admiral Lynde McCormick, vice chief of Naval operations, said plans for the big new flat-top should reach Congress before long. He said the size of the projected vessel will be "between our three large carriers and the design of the 'United States'."

The Navy's large carriers are $45.00 tons; the United States would have been 65,000 tons.

-10 Tonight Is Predicted For Escanaba

Set up that thermostat. It's going to be 10 below zero in Escanaba tonight!

At least, that's the prediction of the local weather bureau office.

What's more, there are no indications of any moderation at least through tomorrow.

About the only consolation to be had is the likelihood that winds, which will hit from 15 to 20 miles an hour this afternoon, will diminish tonight. And nothing but light flurries are expected in the snow department.

If the thermometer does hit a minus 10 tonight, it will be the coldest mark of the current winter. The previous high was seven below on Thanksgiving week.

How cold is 10 below? Judge for yourself—this morning the thermometer got only to three above.

But at International Falls, Minn., it dipped to a chilly 28 below zero last night.

Paving Planned At Cedar River

State Asks Bids For Bridge Approaches

The state highway department will open bids in Escanaba Jan. 23 for the paving of nearly two and one-half miles of M-35 to provide approaches for a proposed new bridge spanning the Cedar River in Menominee county.

A total of 2,450 miles of grading and drainage structures and concrete pavement will be constructed from south of Cedar River to north of Cedar River. The project is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 1, 1951.

No contract has yet been let nor have bids been asked by the state for the construction of the proposed new Cedar River bridge. The present bridge is old and narrow and located on a dangerous reverse curve.

The M-35 paving project was announced today. Bids on five other Upper Peninsula projects, which were announced Saturday, also will be opened on Jan. 23.

Rotarians Hear Charles Wickman

Charles Wickman, Escanaba High school senior, one of the Michigan delegates to the recent White House Youth Conference in Washington, D. C., today noon reported on the five-day conference in a talk to the Escanaba Rotary club at its luncheon meeting in the Delta hotel.

Attended by 5,500 adults and 500 young people from the various states, the conference was notable because in its fifth annual session it included attendance of youth representatives. These representatives of youth participated in all general sessions and in the morning panels and afternoon work meetings, Wickman reported.

Young people of different racial backgrounds and religions mingled without evidence of discrimination or intolerance, Wickman said. In Washington, D. C., however, Negro delegates were subjected to discriminatory actions, he added.

John A. Lemmer, Escanaba superintendent of schools, was a member of the Michigan youth commission for the White House Conference, and reported other phases of the five-day conference.

The Rotarians were entertained with accordion solos, presented by Faye Winchester, student in special rooms at Escanaba Junior High school.

Nudes and Skunks Hold Outdoor News Spotlight

Crazy doings in the Michigan outdoor world during 1950 should provide ample conversational fodder for sportsmen's hot stove sessions this winter.

The conservation department makes these contributions:

The sexy fish lure devised by angler C. W. Handel which calls for a slim-bodied, daintily-scented minnow doing the funny version of the bumps and grinds at the end of the hook;

The Bay City state park rangers who had no difficulty telling when temperatures hit a new high—dashing to the beach to prevent a young lady from taking the plunge in the only bathing suit mother nature ever provided;

Raccoon Rides Jeep

The hazards of live-trapping skunks which ended for game workers when they began enticing the odorous little animal into a box trap with another nostril twister smoked herring, and then offering it a "loaded" ball of ground meat;

The raccoon at the Rose Lake wildlife experiment station with a penchant for joy riding in a jeep;

The "Sir Lancelot" character who conceived the idea of strapping a sharp-edge pole to his car and charging up Oscoda county backroads in search of a deer;

The Kalkaska county buck deer which began sparking Patrick Dockery's mules, keeping them in a dither and jumping all over the pasture;

Woodchuck Starts Fire

The chattering woodchuck which chewed a hole in the radiator hose on conservation officer Glen Price's car at Chatham, causing the alcohol to spurt out over the motor and start a fire;

The reverse-swimming Livingston county muskrat which paddled past the Rose Lake dock, backwatered and peered out at game biologist Arthur Peterson, shifted gears again and disappeared into the cattails;

The large number of ruffed grouse which took refuge in

Young state park during the hunting season;

The pilfering beaver family which cut down small aspen trees within 30 feet of Cheboygan's Main street and floated them down the Cheboygan river paralleling this chief thoroughfare;

Big Fish Stories True

The Ishpeming doctor who asked a stranger for a hand in dragging an illegal second deer out of the woods and received conservation officer Alger Lant's cooperation;

The October warm weather which fooled Dansville area ruffed grouse into starting spring mating season activities;

The Van Buren county flying fisherman who swooped down on North Scott lake for periodic checks of set lines because he was too busy to fish the normal way;

The conservation department's fishing ambassador without portfolio, Harold Olsen of Lansing, who continued to prove big fish exist in several lakes where other anglers swear they are not;

Another wildlife report of a bear in southern Michigan, this time one in Lapeer county which

Power Commission Points To Need For St. Lawrence Seaway Project

PROPOSERS of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project have won an important decision in the ruling by the federal power commission denying the New York state power authority a license to develop a power project on the St. Lawrence river.

The commission said that the critical international situation calls for immediate commencement of construction of the combined project—both power and navigation—by the federal government and not an individual state.

New York state planned to develop a power project on the United States side of the Rapids. The Ontario hydroelectric power commission planned to build the Canadian part.

The federal power commission in its refusal to grant the license emphasized that the New York plan did not include any deep draft navigation facilities. The commission also pointed out that international benefits from the seaway made it desirable for Congress to pass upon a St. Lawrence water development project in its entirety rather than on a piece-meal basis.

The interests of Michigan and the middle western states bordering on the Great Lakes are recognized in this decision by the power commission. It is virtually certain that if the power project were developed by New York state, there would be small chance of getting approval for the navigation phase of the proposed development. The eastern areas that would benefit by the power development would be opposed to the canal project because of a fear that it may jeopardize some of the shipping business in their own ports.

The viewpoint of the federal power commission outlines the broad benefits that the whole project would provide, not only for New York state but for the entire country. The improvement of navigation facilities would be a tremendous benefit to the nation as it faces a new world crisis. And the power that the river would develop is urgently needed to meet the rising demands of eastern industry.

Prichard Release Hits Integrity Of Elections

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S commutation of the prison sentence of Edward F. Prichard, Jr., former administrative aide to President Roosevelt, does nothing to build public faith in our election system.

Prichard, closely connected with high officials of the Democratic party for years, was convicted in July of stuffing forged ballots in a Kentucky ballot box during the 1948 presidential election. The maximum sentence would have been 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine. Prichard drew a two year prison sentence.

Without presidential intervention, Prichard would have been eligible to apply for a parole in about February of next year. For some reason, Mr. Truman saw fit to intervene in Prichard's behalf now and to commute his sentence to the time already served. Thus the prisoner became eligible for immediate release, and he was released Thursday night from the federal penal institution near Ashland, Ky.

Would Mr. Truman have intervened in a similar case involving ballot box stuffing, if the principal involved were not a prominent Democrat? Not likely. The intervention of the president in this case was not warranted by the facts and it does, in a sense, tear down public faith in the sanctity of the ballot box.

Incredible Patents Given Slap

THE Supreme Court was fully warranted in administering a slap at both the makers of simple little gadgets and the United States Patent Office. In one case it ruled that petty devices which contribute nothing to the advancement of science are not patentable. In another it sharply criticized the patent office for acting "like most administrative agencies" and trying to extend its own jurisdiction.

The court was given an opportunity to speak its piece because in a suit before it one company argued that another had infringed three claims to a patent involving a try-like device used in chain stores. In a biting opinion, Justice Douglas declared that the patent system frequently departs "from constitutional standards which are supposed to govern." In citing the "incredible patents" which had been brought before the court he listed such "inventions" as putting elastic gussets in corsets and putting rollers on a machine to make it movable.

This was a well-deserved rebuke. The supreme court has plenty to do without getting mixed up in these silly problems.

Brains Up Yonder Says Dr. Urey

DR. HAROLD C. UREY, atomic scientist and Nobel prize physicist, said in Miami he believes life exists on other planets. His study of the universe, he said, leaves little doubt of that. What's more, he doubts that the human race is the most intelligent form of planetary life.

That's the best news heard in weeks. The human race certainly hasn't been acting like a particularly intelligent species lately. It is good to know there may still be hope for the universe.

Many horrifying pictures of invasion of the earth by man from Mars have been painted. They have invariably been described as beasts that would destroy and subjugate. But perhaps little men from other planets will come on a mission of good will, to help straighten out the mess.

Is this the explanation of "flying saucers"? If these are space ships from other planets, they have shown no manifestation of hostile intent. Here may be a ray of hope.

Bowls

By Gordon Martin

Years ago a bowl was something which contained your dinner soup, or perhaps was filled with punch to serve a celebrating group. It could also aid a housewife in her daily kitchen chores, and at times was used for flowers or some sweets from candy stores. But today a bowl has come to mean a meeting of the clans, and from coast to coast a bowl is filled with rabid football fans.

Now it's not of much importance just which bowl you care to name, if it's Cotton, Rose, or Sugar, its supporters are the same. They are simply ravin' crazy over players of their choice, and from miles away they come to sing their praises and rejoice. And the most important thing in life as New Year's Day arrives, is to pray that dear Old Siwash, when the game is done, survives.

Thus we fill a bowl no longer with such simple things as food, and instead it's jammed with people in a happy gridiron mood. And we garnish them with single wings and devastating T's, plus some pretty, strutting majorettes who sport their duple knees. So a bowl has all the fun for which a screaming fan could wish, and today it's just old-fashioned folks who think a bowl's a dish.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—An Oregon war hero and a noted Catholic editor make some interesting comments regarding Senator Joe McCarthy and his wild charges.

Bill Exline, Oregon senior vice-commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, writes in the Purple Heart magazine "His (McCarthy's) complete disregard for American principles in jurisprudence makes him potentially far more dangerous than those he accuses."

Associate Editor Francis Dowling hit equally hard in the Catholic weekly, Commonweal: "The voice of McCarthy was abroad in the land and it is now, as it was in the beginning, a poisoned and fearful thing. . . . We have known demagogues in our political history, but this is a special kind—an evil kind, a deliberate kind—it adds falseness to the already false. It is the spurious and the counterfeit."

WAR NOTES

Casualties—Even before the Marines broke out of the Chinese trap and began counting their dead and wounded, actual American casualties were running 20,000 ahead of the official announcements. At the end of last week, the announced casualty list was 22,645. In contrast, the actual casualty list still to be given the public was 53,212 dead, wounded and missing.

Power Shortage—The country will feel a serious power pinch next year as defense production starts building up. Already the energy load on the nation's power lines is up 20 per cent over the same period last year, and, as a result, the margins of reserve are disappearing. The blunt truth is that the postwar demands for electricity outstripped the power industry's estimates, and the industry has not kept pace in expanding its facilities.

Self-Inflicted Wounds—Secret cables from the Korean front report an alarming number of American troops are shooting themselves in order to get shipped back to Japan for hospitalization. Medical officers blame severe battle conditions and battle fatigue for the rise in self-inflicted wounds.

Arm-Chair Strategist—Likable Presidential Assistant John Steelman has become a military strategist. In an official memo at the joint chiefs of staff, he gave some ideas on how he thought the air force ought to operate, including a suggestion that the air force use slower planes, so older pilots could fly them and so the pilots could get a better view of the target. He didn't say what the slow planes were supposed to do in case of an attack by Russian MIG-15 jets.

TRUMAN WISECRACKS

The blood type was right—O group—but the neck measurement smallish when President Truman was given the first of 150,000 blood tags which Amvets are distributing for civilian defense against a possible atom bomb attack.

Gen. Alexander Vandegrift, former Marine Corps boss, and Hal Keats, ex-commander of Amvets, presented the radiation-resistant plastic tag to the president, after which he agreed to pose for photographers with the gadget hanging from his neck.

However, the band was tight and he was unable to get it over his head without removing his glasses. Finally the president compromised by posing with the tag in his hand.

"Guess I've got the big head today," wisecracked Mr. Truman.

ASBESTOS SHORTAGE

The shortage of asbestos, used to insulate tanks and warships, is so critical that our stockpile contains only 3 per cent of actual war needs. The British asbestos cartel in South Africa, under pressure from the ECA and the British government, has finally promised to increase our quota of this vital war material, but meanwhile the national production authority has failed to start controlling the great quantity of asbestos used to insulate civilian automobiles. Apparently the protection of U. S. troops from enemy flame throwers is less important than the fire hazard to civilian motorists.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

Q. Why you please explain the origin of the expression "get off your high horse"?—W. C.

A. The origin is lost in antiquity. But it is an allusion to the superiority of the man on horseback to the man on foot. Indeed, the chivalry of knighthood was based on the ownership of a horse. The owner of a horse was a gentleman. The footman or infantryman (squire) who attended the knight was inferior socially as well as physically, because, having no horse, he had to travel on his own two feet.

The word haughty is from the French haught, "high." Supercilious expresses the idea of raised eyebrows. The aloof person regards others as if from a distance. The domineering person towers over or above, for the word is from the Latin dominus, "master, lord." The condescending person is one whose actions or attitude plainly indicate that he is conscious of descending from a superior position.

The sense of "get off your high horse," then, is, "stop acting as if you were riding above me on a horse." Much of the same thought is expressed in the expressions "high-hat, upstage, haughty, supercilious, overbearing, aloof, domineering, condescending"—they all suggest a looking down upon by a superior (superior means "higher") person.

The high hat is worn only by important persons of the upper class. Upstage originally referred to the actor who chose to remain at the back of the stage, which was at one time higher in elevation than the front.

The broad A is heard natively in the speech of some (but by no means all) New Englanders and New Yorkers; but even in those regions it is fast disappearing. Throughout the rest of the nation the broad A does not occur except in affected speech, and on Tallulah Bankhead broadcasts.

Allies Ready To Scrap Ban On Germany To Build Western Army

By EDWARD HUGHES

Staff Correspondent of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

BRUSSELS—The United States and its Western Allies are ready to grant West Germany practically unlimited freedom if their former enemy will make a swift and sizeable contribution to an anti-Soviet European armed force.

That's what West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer heard from the American, British and French High Commissioners of the occupied nation.

They have told him: A 12-nation integrated group of armies is being rapidly organized to defend Europe against Communism. Then they'll ask him: Will you please start recruiting as soon as possible 50,000 to 100,000 German soldiers as your contribution?

This will set off a series of events which within months will likely convert the status of American, British and French troops in Germany from one of an occupation force to that of paying guests. It is certain to mean the removal of all major bans on the production of German industry and the withdrawal of Allied supervisory powers over the German economy and politics.

The West Will Give and Give These steps, according to Allied political experts, are the only ways to insure wholehearted German participation in the military efforts of Europe. All West German clamors for "freedom and equality" before she will arm her soldiers. And she is confident that the threat of Russia will force the West to give and give and give before changing a political crisis in the German Federal Republic. She is probably correct.

Germany's excellent bargaining position is uppermost in the minds of the foreign ministers of the U. S., Britain and France this week. After the North Atlantic Pact organization met here in the Belgian capital Monday and Tuesday to set up an integrated European military force and to lay Germany's participation in the Big Three foreign ministers had to sit down and figure out how to get their former enemy's approval.

A tight veil of secrecy was thrown around the specific decisions made in the "green salon" of the Belgian foreign ministry building where U. S. Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman and their aides conferred Tuesday night. But it's reported reliably the foreign ministers told the Allied High Commissioners:

We will drop immediately all restrictions on the production of the German steel industry. We'll let the Germans produce ships with no limit to speed or size. We'll drop our objections to German chemical production and synthetic rubber production. The Germans can make ball bearings too, if they are not sent to the East. We'll also take steps to end the legal state of war that still exists between the Allies and the Germans.

The Control Law May Go Too Furthermore, reliable sources state the Big Three did not exclude the possibility that the "occupation statute" which now governs the relations between Germany and the Allies will be scrapped altogether. They are said to have stated bargaining by the High Commissioners will prevent the necessity for conceding this most vital goal in the Germans' attempt to get equality in the world. The Allies prefer to hold onto the occupation statute as long as possible. But it's believed it will be ditched and a "security treaty" substituted if German stubbornness produces a crisis.

It's likely Chancellor Adenauer will try his best to achieve this total abolition of the occupation statute. The foreign ministers had already decided months ago to relax many restrictions of German industry. They are known to have been previously considering renunciation of control over such things as how German finances should be handled, how German courts should be run and how fast automobiles should travel on German highways. So granting these things now won't thrill the German government at Bonn too much.

A Choice Political Plum

But it would be a real political plum for the Chancellor and his conservative Democratic party if he could get the Allies to give up their dominating status as occupational powers and sign a defense treaty with Germany instead. Herr Adenauer has publicly suggested such a "security agreement" and it is known that officials in the U. S. High Commission at Frankfurt look on the idea with some favor.

Such a change in the relationship of Germany and the Western victors would mean an improvement for the Germans in many small things. For one, it might mean the allies would start paying some of their own costs of troop maintenance in Germany instead of making it a burden on the German budget.

But it is the prestige value that Bonn wants from such a pact. "Not until we are treated as full-fledged partners in the world will we believe we have attained the equality we demand," says a Government spokesman at Bonn.

Under orders from the Big Three ministers, the High Commissioners should refuse to permit a security treaty at this stage of the bargaining, observers think German political leaders will whip up a political row so intense it might get out of hand. Without EDIT FEA—continued bothering to conceal it, German political chiefs of all major parties are exploiting the Allied dilemma to the fullest.

A "Great Day of Protest" Kurt Schumacher, fiery leader of the Social Democrats—chief opponents of Chancellor Adenauer's Conservative Democrats—said on Tuesday he will order a national campaign by his party to defeat rearmament legislation if it comes before the Federal parliament. The Communists have set January 23 as a national "great day of protest" against a rearmament bill.

Chancellor Adenauer himself tells the press he "won't be a party to any half-way concessions" brought forward by the Allies.

Yet, except for the Communists, all politicians have agreed to the idea of rearmament—if what they call "equality" is granted to Germany. It has never been clearly defined, but the general catchall term clearly applies to military as well as political equality.

German leaders have been especially keen to have parity at the lack of "equality" in the North Atlantic Treaty organization's plans for German troop participation in Europe's defense. The N. A. T. O. blueprint calls for German combat units no larger than brigade size—about 5,000 to 7,000 men. A German brigade or combat team would be incorporated into an allied armored or infantry division.

To the German protest that this not only violates the idea of equality but is tactically stupid as well, the High Commissioners are ready to assure Bonn this is purely "transitional" and that it will probably be changed as soon as feasible to regular division size units in which the Germans would have full staff services and other facilities needed for combat mobility. Only the French still insist on the combat team structure and it is believed the Americans will talk France out of this after a few months of psychological preparation for the shock of the German arms build-up.

Planes, Ships and Tanks

Moreover, the Germans will be told they will have their own tactical air units but no strategic Luftwaffe. They'll have their own defensive naval force—which would include minesweepers and patrol boats—and equality of tanks and weapons with Allied troops. And it's now generally agreed that the Germans will have an officer on General Eisenhower's planning staff. The only major restriction: The Germans won't be allowed a ministry of defense or a general staff of their own.

With these arguments and a specific guarantee that the number of American troops in Europe will be greatly increased next year, the High Commissioners hope to convince the German he is being hoisted up to the stature of an equal and his troops will not be left to fight a rearmament battle while the allies run the show. The High Commission at Bonn is to be defended on the Rhine, not from the left bank of the Rhine.

So They Say

In the depression '30s American families owned life insurance equal to more than twice their annual family incomes, but today the incomes have increased so sharply that the amount of insurance owned is less than the annual income.

I think that since consumers have been through one big war scare, they're not likely to react soon again.—John C. Hosen, Washington representative of National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Come, come! You don't rush American and British regulars around like that.—Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, General MacArthur's intelligence chief, asked whether he believed Chinese Reds would push UN forces out of Korea.

Out of each successful struggle and achievement comes growth and a feeling of adequacy for the child. Our homes need to be places where children learn how to meet what is difficult or adverse by spiritual help and with emotional courage.—Bishop Hazen G. Werner, Ohio Methodist Church.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

EARLIER TIME—Slippery streets and sidewalks are a threat to life and limb and Escanaba this winter has had its share of both—with occasional light snowfalls covering the treacherous ice with a deceptive coating.

Two women, shuffling along the icy Ludington sidewalk, were complaining that something should be done to correct the condition.

"They say Escanaba used to be called Sand Point," one of the women observed, "but from the looks of the sidewalks you'd never know it!"

In fairness it should be reported that numerous truckloads of sand have been distributed on sidewalks, streets, and at intersections by the city street crews. Continued cold weather keeps the ice hard and smooth, however, and the sand fails to roughen it.

Compared to an earlier day, the city's streets and sidewalks are boulevards of ease and comfort—as any oldtimer will agree.

SAND POINT—Escanaba originally was known as Sand Point and that name still applies to the point in the vicinity of the U. S. Coast Guard lighthouse station.

One of the Delta county residents who recalls early Escanaba days is George Wiltzie, now living on the South Bay shore. Born at Sack Bay in the 1860's, George came to Escanaba with his parents when he was about 10 years old.

The streets were trails between the stumps, sidewalks (if any) were made of wood, and shallow dug wells near the houses supplied drinking water that had not yet become contaminated. Later as the population grew these wells became sources of water-borne typhoid germs. Some years there were several score cases of the disease and many deaths.

HISTORY PROJECT—As the best study of mankind is man, so the best study of history is your own community and its relationship to the history of your community and its relationship to the history of your county, state, nation and the world.

Fifth graders of one elementary school in Escanaba will, if teacher's plans materialize, study local history in connection with their text book work in American history as a project for the remainder of the school year. The Delta County Historical Society has offered its assistance in supplying any available material.

No doubt after they have examined all aspects of community life in Escanaba in the early days they will better appreciate the city of today.

There is scarcely a phase of living that is not improved since the pioneers arrived in Escanaba during Civil War days to build a town and homes.

PROGRESS REPORT—The sand and the dust and ruts have given way to hard-surfaced streets—even if they are icy. Folks operate autos where, once the horses struggled through drifts.

Sidewalks (although icy) provide pedestrian paths where once the cows wandered without restraint. Many of the older houses in town still have their iron or wood fences, reminder of a period when you had to fence the cows away from the front door and the petunia bed.

Gene also are the rays of the limelight, the gas lamps, and smoky kerosene lights provided dim and dangerous illumination for street and home.

FOR BETTER LIVING—In their examination of Escanaba's past the students may find references to the community "pest house" where persons with smallpox, diphtheria or other communicable diseases were given isolation and medical care that was meager and inadequate compared to today's standards.

Better health practices, improved sanitation, safe water supply, pure food laws—these and other evidence of progress make the "good old days" appear anything but desirable. Ice on the streets and sidewalks? No sand? Back when Grandma was a girl they not only slipped on ice—they also waded through snow drifts.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Moscow—Killing one's own pigs in the Soviet Union may bring as much as two years imprisonment or exile. Livestock isn't increasing at the rate the government would like, so the powerful central executive committee has placed a ban on killing any livestock capable of reproducing.

Escanaba—The Misses Loretta and Catherine LeMire, who teach in Detroit, have arrived to spend the holidays with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. LeMire.

Manistique—Directors of the Schoolcraft county fair association have recommended the appropriation of $1,200 for a two-day racing program at next year's fair. Officers elected for the coming year are Harry Blandford, president; W. B. Thomas, secretary, and C. L. Smith, treasurer.

20 YEARS AGO

Berlin—Pilsner is not Pilsner unless it is brewed in Pilsen, insist the beer interests of Czechoslovakia. They are trying to prove it in a series of suits against German brewers who sell "Pilsner type" beer without emphasizing its Berlin, Munich or other geographical origin.

Escanaba—Francis Boyce, student of Notre Dame university, has arrived from South Bend, Ind., for a visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Boyce.

Gladstone—Miss Helen LaFaver, teacher in Manitowish high school, has arrived for a holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. LaFaver.

L'Anse—Gabriel Gamache, son of Alphonse Gamache of L'Anse, will be ordained into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church Friday in DePere, Wis.

Old movies are enjoying a great revival on television. So is Joe Miller's Joke Book.

Yule Electric Demand Heavy

One Transformer 'Out' In Weekend

Escanaba homes decorated for the Yule season were supplied with a steady electric current throughout the weekend except for a short period when a transformer fuse blew Sunday evening. Hugo Lilquist, electric superintendent, reported today.

The transformer blow-out, at 5:40 p. m., Sunday affected homes in three blocks in the South Eighth and Ninth avenue area.

It was caused by overload.

Peak demand for electrical current during the year was recorded last Wednesday when an increase of 400 kilowatts in a 15-minute period occurred. Each year peak demand for current increases by 300 to 400 kilowatts in a 15-minute period, usually during the Christmas season.

City crews began checking transformers Dec. 1 and of 400 measured 20 overloaded units were replaced. Each unit found to have more than a 20 per cent overload was replaced.

Because the load increases here each year, city crews attempt to anticipate heavy holiday demand, and check all transformers early in December.

The peak demand last December was 4,378 kw per 15 minutes and this December, peak demand was for 4,723 kw in a 15-minute interval.

Search For Missing Tugboat Abandoned On Rough Lake Erie

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The coast guard today gave up its search for the missing tug Sachem.

Rear Admiral Roy L. Raney, commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District, declared a week-long search of Lake Erie waters had convinced the guard the vessel is no longer afloat.

The 80-foot diesel powered craft carried 12 men. It cleared Buffalo but failed to report at Dunkirk, N. Y., setting off a search by guard surface craft and airplanes as well as planes from the air force, the navy reserve and the Erie County, Pa., sheriff's office.

The boat was owned by Dunbar and Sullivan Dredging Co. of Detroit and commanded by Capt. Heck Church of Lincoln Park, Mich.

Two lifebelts stamped "Sachem" were found Sunday along the south shore of Lake Erie. Eight miles away and 32 miles southwest of Buffalo an oil slick was discovered.

The coast guard announced a marine board of investigation would be convened at Buffalo in a week or 10 days.

Elks Club Damaged In Grand Rapids Fire

The base of undetermined origin started in a basement boiler room and spread to the billiard room on the first floor, firemen reported.

There was no early estimate of loss.

Families Are Moved Away From Bandits

KUALA LUMPUR, Malay States — (AP)—Federal government authorities are pushing a big resettlement program in Selangor state to take families out of zones where Communist terrorists are operating. One thousand families now scattered over the Ampang district are being moved. Their resettlement in effect will set up a new township.

The new area has been fenced in by barbed wire and special constables are on guard.

LOCUSTS MENACE IRAN

TEHRAN, Iran — (AP)— Huge swarms of crop-destroying desert locusts are invading Southern Iran from Baluchistan, Pakistan and the Arabian peninsula. Flying in groups so thick that they sometimes blot out the sun for hours, the locusts are part of the great winter migration that is threatening many middle eastern countries.

The Iranian ministry of agriculture has dispatched experts to the infested areas in the south to lead the fight against the insect onslaught. Little can be done to combat the locusts while they are migrating. So far little damage has been done to crops because most of the grain has been harvested.

Iranian officials say most of the damage will come next spring when the red and yellow locusts hatch from millions of eggs and attack young, budding crops. In some years damage has been so great that local famines have developed.

There was also considerable demand for oats, and soybeans were up as much as 4½ cents at times in active trading. Traders said there was some short-covering on the advance. A better vegetable oil market and higher lead prices were mentioned features.

Train Bound For Soo Scatters Cargo In Wreck At Vicksburg

VICKSBURG, Mich. — (AP)— Wrecking crews expected today to complete clearing of debris piled up by derailment of a Pennsylvania freight train on a quarter-mile stretch of track.

Twenty cars of an 81-car train were derailed a mile south of here at 4:50 a. m. yesterday. Valuable cargo was scattered helter-skelter.

State police were told that a hot box caused a freight car to leave the tracks, pulling 19 other cars with it. Cartwheeling cars tumbled across the Vicksburg-Portage Lake road. One skidded across the road into a farmer's yard and three others stacked themselves on top of each other. Another stood on end.

Engineer W. B. Butz of Fort Wayne, Ind., said the train was northbound for Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., by way of Grand Rapids. No one was reported injured.

The engine and first 14 cars remained on the track.

World War II, took over command as the Eighth Army in new positions along the border to South Korea was awaiting an imminent Communist offensive.

Chinese and Korean Reds, supplies and artillery were massed all along the front. Their patrols jabbed at numerous points along a 120-mile front stretching three-fourths of the way across Korea. They awaited only the signal to strike in force.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinerton reported Ridgway had been given command of all troops in Korea. This included the U. S. 10th Corps, 105,000 strong.

Last Men Out Sunday

The 10th Corps' evacuation was completed Sunday from Hungnam, 130 miles deep in North Korea, and most of the troops already were in the old southeast Korea beachhead around Pusan and Pohang ports.

The Red military leader, Chu Teh, warned U. N. troops to get out of Korea, the United States to pull its military forces out of Formosa, and demanded a seat for Red China in the United Nations.

The first Communist blow was expected to fall somewhere along the 38th parallel in western or central Korea where the Communist troops are massed in strength.

Chu, in a Peiping broadcast heard in Tokyo by Kyodo News Agency, did not say what Red China would do if the non-Communist nations supporting the Republic of Korea refused to leave. But the Chinese and Red Korean masses swarming all along the parallel 38 border to South Korea made his language clear.

Still Have Hopes

General MacArthur said a Communist offensive was expected momentarily. The U. N. commander said the Chinese and Korean Reds had massed troops, supplies and artillery along the new front; they awaited only the signal to strike in force.

And MacArthur said earlier the Chinese have committed more than 1,000,000 veterans troops to the Korean campaign.

"Participation in the Korean war by Chinese people volunteers results from the insolent extension of aggression by American imperialists," Chu said.

"The Chinese people have time and again expressed their desire for a settlement of the Korean war but the imperialists stubbornly rejected a peaceful settlement. "We still hope now that the Korean war can swiftly achieve peace."

"We insist that all foreign troops must swiftly withdraw from Korea and that the domestic affairs of Korea must be by Korean themselves."

"The peoples' (Communist) Republic of China must have their legitimate seat in the United Nations."

"U. S. aggressive forces must withdraw from Taiwan (Formosa)."

Port Devastated

Chu's remarks were made against a swiftly changing Korean scene.

Once again Communists controlled all of North Korea, that half of the country north of 38. This was the dividing line set up by the United States and Russia for occupation after the defeat of Japan in World War II.

Allied troops completed Sunday the evacuation of their last stronghold in North Korea, at the port Hungnam.

The U. N. navy evacuated 105,000 American, South Korean, British and Puerto Rican troops and nearly 100,000 non-Communist North Korean civilians.

The northeast Korea port was left devastated. An army engineer estimated it would take six to eight months for the Communists to make it usable again.

MacArthur said the U. S. 10th Corps comprising five divisions had been redeployed by sea from the Hungnam beachhead "to a juncture" with the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea.

He did not explain his use of the word "juncture."

But Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, said earlier the 10th Corps was moving into the old Pusan-Pohang beachhead in southeast Korea.

General MacArthur said the Reds continued all preparations for an immediate offensive against the U. S. Eighth Army and its components spread across the waist of Korea.

The Eighth Army announced that Communist Chinese troops were south of 38 and inside the Republic of Korea. It reported Chinese forces in strength only 28 miles from fast-emptying Seoul, the South Korean capital.

hood for Alaska and Hawaii, as defense outposts. Passed by the House, the statehood bills will die for lack of Senate action when the present Congress ends.

Much more likely to get immediate attention from the new Congress will be Mr. Truman's expected requests for huge military outlays at home and abroad, revision and extension of the rest control law.

These and other emergency-spawned issues are expected to take up the opening months of Congress. The new membership is so closely divided between Democrats and Republicans that it probably will pass little controversial domestic legislation.

Money Bills Passed

During the brief lame-duck meeting which must end by noon, Jan. 3, the House and Senate:

1. Sent to President Truman for his signature a stop-gap bill to extend rent controls for three months; and a bill to provide a total of $50,000,000 of food and supply aid to famine-struck Yugoslavia.

2. Passed in different forms a $3,000,000,000 plus excess profits tax bill; a bill to provide around $18,000,000,000 for defense; and a bill to set up an unprecedented civil defense organization.

House-Senate conference committees have disposed of the tax bill (and the Senate has approved the compromise version); but they have not yet reconciled differences on the defense money and the civil defense measures.

No final action on these three bills is possible until the new year. The House has scheduled only token meets this week.

The president also asked the waning 81 Congress to give him two emergency powers he says will speed up mobilization.

The Senate has passed one of them, giving federal agencies wider contract powers; the House has not passed either.

It's Pappy Rote As West Drills

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Highlight of Christmas day at the Stanford campus training camp of the West team for the Shrine East-West charity football game wasn't the daily drill or even the arrival of Santa Claus.

It was an arrival of a different kind.

Kyle Rote, Southern Methodist star who has been assigned full-back duties in the game Saturday, was notified that his wife had given birth to a seven pound, four ounce boy in Dallas.

Rote beamed "it's the finest Christmas present anybody could have."

Later, in answer to shouts of "Come on, Pappy," he joined quarterbacks From Nagle, Nebraska, and Bill Weeks, Iowa State, in long range passing practice.

At Santa Clara, the East squad also stressed passing. Usually uncommunicative, Coach Bernie Bierman said the team is "coming along pretty good."

Vito Ragazzo, William and Mary end, was sidelined with a bruised chest suffered in a collision with linebacker Jake Rowden from Maryland. Team physicians, however, said Ragazzo probably will be available for the game.

Need Army Of 5,000,000 For War Against China

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—After the Bolshevik revolution of 1917, which took Russia out of the alliance against Germany and out of the war, the British persisted in believing that the Communist uprising was a temporary aberration which could soon be put to rights and the Czar restored to power. Some important figures in the war cabinet in London continued to regard Lenin and Trotsky as mere German agents who could be bribed or eliminated in some fashion and the old order put back again.

Part of this strange tragicomic story is told in Sir Bruce Lockhart's witty and brilliant book, "Memoirs of a British Agent." Ignorant of the real nature of the total collapse of Czarist powers and the Czarist armies and the revolution which succeeded it, the British tried with feeble gestures to restore the past.

Failure At Archangel
The military expedition to Archangel was a dismal failure. British backing in a limited way was given to several Cossack generals who were either incompetent or corrupt, or both. An effort was made to get the Japs to intervene in Siberia and a division of American troops was stationed for a number of futile months in the Siberian hinterland.

This little history lesson should be most instructive for the United States today. The American approach to Communist China suggests at the moment that this country may be repeating with revolutionary China the mistakes made by Britain with respect to revolutionary Russia.

The reports from Korea of Chinese Communist soldiers hurling themselves fanatically at American tanks are illuminating. New forces have been unleashed in Asia which may not be susceptible to repression by the means used for so long by the White powers. One who had begun to perceive this was the late Wendell Willkie.

On his famous around-the-world flight Willkie went to Chungking. There he met not only Chiang Kai-Shek and the Nationalist leaders but top Communists then cooperating in the war against Japan. One of them was Chou En-Lai, who is now foreign minister for the Reds in Peiping. After talking with Chou, Willkie wrote that if all the Communists were like him, then "their movement is more a national and agrarian awakening than an international or proletarian conspiracy."

Perhaps this qualifies him as one of the native dupes so scorned today. But, nevertheless, there is a perceptive passage in his book, "one world," that has great meaning for us today:

This is important at this moment above all because it shows Willkie's awareness of the new forces unleashed in countries long submerged in colonialism. Those forces may colonized. They may be deflected into the channels of Nationalism.

But whether they can be suppressed by armed might exerted by the United States is a very large question. The question is really whether any power applied from the outside would be sufficient to put back the broken pieces of the past.

Here, too, the British experience after World War II may be illuminating. Certainly the Bolshevik armies were hard pressed as attacks were pushed from various sides. An allied army of sufficient size properly equipped and with the zeal to fight might have defeated the Bolsheviks.

Even if such an army had existed there were the factors of geography and climate, which have defeated other conquerors, including one named Napoleon and one named Hitler. There is another factor perhaps equally important and that is the hostility aroused in a population by foreign intervention. Dictators in the past have skillfully exploited this emotion to help solidify themselves in power. It is one of the techniques consistently used by the Kremlin dictators since 1917.

A limited war against Communist China would be seized upon by the Red dictators to fan hatred of the West. Whether it would serve to checkmate the spread of Communism in Asia is at least open to doubt. A full-scale war against Communist China could hardly be undertaken without an American land army of 5,000,000. The difficulties of geography and climate would be at least as great as in Russia.

After the savage Communist Chinese aggression in Korea it may be too late to reach any adjustment with the Peiping regime, which appears to be fairly well entrenched in power. For American policy vacillated so long between extremes. But it is not too late to realize that what is happening in China and in Asia is not the work of a few puppets inspired by and directed from Moscow.

Raps Proposal To Defer Young Brain-Trusters

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—There is a proposal afoot to insure the draft deferment of bright boys, or juvenile double-domes, and to that end we understand Congress will be asked for money for a million "aptitude" tests in the close future.

RUARK

This would put a life-or-death premium on scholastic marks of college men. The poor genius who does not attend college would not be considered for exemption. In some sort of vague manner, known especially to Washington, the prize scholastic hog would be deferred only so long as his grades held. On graduation, he would get further deferment if he undertook an "essential" job.

The idea is to construct an elite corps of young brain-trusters, who can eventually sit down and celebrate their way out of international difficulties. It took a six-man advisory committee to Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey only two years to grab this one out of the bag. General Hershey has not formally endorsed the findings, but is on record as favoring deferment on the basis of aptitude tests and scholastic performance.

Possibilities For Abuse
I don't believe you can sit down and create an elite corps of brains, plucked from the masses by tests, nor do I believe you can invade personal dignity so far as to make a thinker out of one category and a warrior out of another—without, first, subjecting all to the original indignity of the draft.

Formation of mass exemptions based on as flimsy a criterion as an "A" for algebra or a "B" in sociology erects a fine and fertile basis for abuse of a general herding of manpower. It additionally complicates an already super-complicated structure, the draft, which was subjected to a goshawful amount of abuse in its simplest form.

The draft is a heavy foot on individual freedom, but evidently we find it necessary. If that be so, the less special privileges involved in it, the better. We had too many "essentials" in the last one. Washington was leaping with political-connected youngsters with no particular cerebral endowments, while many a genius slept in the mud and toiled a rifle.

It seems to me that the basis of preference in a manpower muster would be physical acceptability, age, state of economic liability as determined by dependents, and possession of professional or scientific skills beyond the demand of the military.

Skull-Soldiers

For those who qualify, in the right physico-age groups, it would make sense to take them all, and later determine the fining-down process which separates the skull-soldier from the foot-slogger. Then there is a man at hand to be used for any purpose the military deems important. If his mental brilliance then becomes so manifest that he is too smart to be shot at or police a barracks, you can always send him back to school, in uniform, at the same pay his less talented brother gets for exposing his fanny to a shower of shrapnel.

When you rear back and declare a state of imminent war, the accent should be on the enforcement of equality. In unpleasantness, broad, arbitrary choosing of who shall go and who shall stay, unless boiled down to a minimum, gets so out of hand that everybody has a semi-legitimate claim to immunity.

It does not seem fair that one man shall say to his progeny, when asked the ancient question of what Daddy did in the war: "I got a B-plus in beekeeping" while another of the same age and civil right shall answer: "The foot got froze off in Manchuria."

If we need men, we draft 'em all. There is time to spare for the special selections and special usages and special determinations after we have the manpower pool we need. As was so true in the last effort, higher education can be postponed when the crying need at the time is for bodies—and in this respect one man is rarely better than another.

Coast Guard Ends Annual Activity At Grand Marais

GRAND MARAIS—Six of the Coast Guardsmen stationed at the United States Coast Guard station in Grand Marais left this week for their temporarily assigned posts and the big station closed for the winter season. Only the office will remain open until the Great Lakes reopen for shipping in the spring and more men are assigned here to man the station.

Remaining here for year round duty are Charles Smyth, officer in charge and Walter Aho, Toivo Linnamaki, officer in charge at Grand Sable light also reported here for winter duty since the closing of the lighthouse. The light is inaccessible in winter except by snow shoes or skis.

Guardsmen transferred, and their stations include: Paul Antall, Miller to Marble Head, Ohio; Richard Kapola to Buffalo, N. Y.; Roy Olson to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Robert Sawyer to Detroit, Mich.; and Paul Wallesgo to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Larry Stabnough, formerly stationed at Grand Sable light has been transferred to Two Rivers, Wis., for temporary duty. Most of these men expect to return to Grand Marais again next year.

Woman's Club Workshop

The Grand Marais Woman's club held their program "Christmas Workshop" at the home of Mrs. James Buckland at 8 p. m., on Thursday evening, December 21.

Mrs. Edward Erickson demonstrated the correct procedure for making a lovely little gift parcel by using such standard home supplies as one lady's handkerchief, a paper napkin, small piece of wall-paper, ribbon, straight pins and Scotch tape. Each lady present made one for herself or for a gift. Then Mrs. Edward Erickson exhibited the technique necessary to convert 1 box and 1 brick of paraffin plus a bit of cord into a beautiful holiday candle using only an egg beater, spatula and hot water. Mrs. Joseph Drust then demonstrated her novel idea for decorating the candle with holly leaves and berries using bits of crayon melted in wax. The combined result was a Christmas candle anyone would be proud to display or give as a gift.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Mrs. George Dreamer, Mrs. Joseph Drust and Mrs. Rex Block.

The next meeting will be Thursday evening January 4th, at the school. Each member will bring one new member and the evening will serve as a "get acquainted party." Lunch will be pot luck.

New School Vacation Schedule

The Christmas and New Year holiday schedule for the Grand Marais school formerly announced as December 20th at noon till Thursday Jan. 4 at 9 a. m., has been changed. Supt. Neal Beaver has announced the classes will begin at 9 a. m., on Tuesday morning, January 2 instead. Bus schedule as usual.

Mrs. Louis Roberts has returned home following a visit with her children, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carver and family of Gary, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Willis Pugh and daughter, Christine, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roberts and daughter, Dixie of Milwaukee, Wis. Her daughter Mrs. Sidney Katolic went on to Cleveland, O., where she will make her home. Sidney returned to Grand Marais with Mrs. Roberts but left again immediately to re-join his wife in Cleveland before the holidays.

Beauty Expert
Predicts "Soft
Look" For 1951

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD. — (AP) — What will 1951 bring women's styles? "The soft look," predicts beauty expert Bud Westmore.

Nothing could make Bud happier. He has been an outspoken critic of 1950 styles, which he termed "the Frankenstein look." Bud should know. The youngest of the makeup Westmores, he is makeup chief at Universal-International studios, where he whips up Frankenstein monsters. He also has the more pleasurable chore of creating, adorning and preserving the beauty of movie stars.

In that capacity he blasted this year's vogues of long skirts, short haircuts, doe-eyes, heavy makeup and bee-stung lips.

"Off The Beam"

"Those styles came close to eliminating the appeal of American women," he remarked. "Seldom in history have women been so misguided in their attempt to be attractive. They went so far off the beam that several of the top movie actresses appeared on the screen with hair so short that they looked like men."

The reaction has set in, he added, and the new year will see a complete reversal.

"The men demanded it," Bud explained. "They would recoil in horror when they saw some of the things they had made dates with."

"Women are wising up to the fact that men desire femininity in a girl. The guys don't want freaks who paint and clip themselves until they take the appearance of half-drowned cocker spaniels."

Westmore predicted the "soft look" will bring these features in 1951:

Skirts will be up to a more alluring length; Makeup will return to soft, pastel shades instead of the dark, heavy goos; Bosoms will be larger and more uplifted; Hair will return to shoulder-length.

It Will Take Time

Westmore warned that girls who went overboard for 1950 styles will not be able to convert to the "soft look" right away.

"Some of them cut their hair to within an inch of their scalp," he said. "It will take a year or two for the hair to grow back to shoulder length."

The makeup expert concluded with these words of advice to American women: "If you want to get and hold your man, shorten your skirts, lengthen your hair and soften your face."

Arrest Local Man Following Accident

Jerome Martinson, 30, of Pearl street faced the prospect of spending the holidays in jail when he was unable to pay a $50 fine and costs in local justice court Saturday morning.

Martinson was arrested by state police Friday night following an accident on Deer street. Arraigned Saturday before Justice of the Peace Victor P. Deemer, he pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of $3.75. His operator's license also was revoked for six months.

Unable to pay his fine, Martinson was given the alternative sentence of 30 days in jail. Justice Deemer indicated later that he would probably pay his fine in a few days.

At 10:30 Friday night a car driven by Martinson, headed west, got over on the wrong side of Deer street and crashed into an oncoming car driven by Lloyd Ayotte, 34 North First street. Left front fenders of both cars collided, causing damage of about $150 to each car.

Copper Range Co. Applies For Loan To Open Big Mine

WASHINGTON—(P)—The defense minerals administration said it is studying an application for a loan or grant designed to facilitate opening of a big copper mine in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The application is from the Copper Range Mining Co., Houghton, Mich. Officials of the company have been conferring with the minerals administration here this week.

Administration spokesmen said it would be at least several days before the application is acted on. The minerals administration, set up in the interior department under the defense production act passed last September, serves as certifying agency for requests for loans and grants.

The Houghton firm wants to open the White Pine mine in Ontonagon county, Mich., an administration spokesman said. The mine, he said, may be able to supply millions of pounds of copper needed in the defense effort.

Browns To Keep Building Says Boss After Sensational Win Over Rams

CLEVELAND —(P)— Professional football's new champs, the Cleveland Browns, are going to "keep on building and winning," owner Arthur B. (Mickey) McBride promised today.

Furthermore, he said the Browns' coach in 1951 still will be Paul Brown, despite persistent talk that Paul might be interested in going back to college football.

Still elated over the Browns' last 20-second 30 to 28 defeat of the Los Angeles Rams for the championship of the National football league, McBride insisted: "Paul has never mentioned leaving the Browns. I think he has the best coaching job in the country. He's the boss and answers to no one."

"I'm not thinking of anything but having him with us next year."

Brown could scarcely have asked for a more heart shaking victory than Sunday's defeat of the Rams, giving him his first NFL title after four straight in the defunct "minor league" All-America conference.

Tear Down Goal Posts
With 20 seconds left and the Browns trailing 28 to 27, Lou (The Toe) Groza supplied the contest with a comic strip close by booting a field goal. Some of the 29,751 witnesses got so excited they tore down the goal posts, a maneuver cold pro fans almost never bother with.

What made the triumph so amazing was that less than three minutes before, the Browns' fine "quarterback," Otto Graham, fumbled the ball on the Rams' 17-yard line just when he seemed to be engineering a winning touchdown. The Rams recovered. But the Rams, after stalling, finally punted and the Browns charged down the field in a series of plays in those closing two minutes until they set up the ball from where Groza booted a 16-yard perfect field goal.

Brilliant Passing
The contest was a brilliant passing duel between Bob Waterfield of the Rams, who almost broke up the game on the first play when he completed an 82-yard scoring aerial to Glenn Davis and Otto Graham of the victorious Browns.

Until the final half-minute, it appeared the extra point which the Browns missed in the second period might provide the magnificently-manned Rams with a one-point victory.

It was a wide-open offensive game all the way with Graham and Waterfield threatening to break it open at any time with their sensational hurling.

Graham completed 22 of 33 for 298 yards and all four Cleveland touchdowns, while Waterfield clicked on 18 of 31 for 312 yards and one touchdown.

It was a ding-dong battle with the lead changing hands several times.

Rough Going
The rough going did not hamper the aerial attack or the kicking of the two clubs. Waterfield, in addition to booting four extra points, averaged 50.75 yards on four punts for a new record in the championship game, erasing the mark of 49 yards set by Eskin of the New York Giants in 1941.

Other new marks going into the book for championship contest play were: four interceptions of Waterfield's passes, Lavelli's 11 pass-receptions, Cleveland's 13 first downs by passing, and the Waterfield-Davis pass play which was the longest game ever has witnessed.

Robinson Ends Europe Trip With $45,000

FRANKFURT, Germany — (P)— Flushed with triumph and money, Sugar Ray Robinson headed back toward the United States today after a European tour that netted him five ring victories and $45,000 in only one month.

The world welterweight champion polished off his last European opponent here last night with a fifth round knockout. The victim was Hans Stretz, former German middleweight champion. It was a non-title match scheduled for 10 rounds.

The American Negro knocked Stretz down seven times before putting him away with a one-two punch after 30 seconds of the fifth round.

Stretz charged Robinson every time he got up off the floor prior to the finish. But Sugar was too fast and hit too hard for the 22-year-old German.

Robinson and his entourage of 10 sail tomorrow for the United States.

At Chicago on Feb. 14, Robinson will make a bid for a second world crown in a 155-round title bout with middleweight king Jake LaMotta.

Robinson is sure of collecting at least $7,500 from his Frankfurt fight, which drew an estimated 9,000 spectators, including more than 2,000 Americans.

LEADING SNOW MAN—John Litchfield is the first American ever to conduct a major ski school. A 34-year-old native of Auburn, Me., he was appointed executive director of the Sun Valley, Ida., Ski School, the largest in the United States. St. Joe Record Best Among Tourney Teams

Charles, Robinson Get Top Ring Awards

NEW YORK — (P)— Heavyweight Champ Charles, welterweight king Ray Robinson and bantamweight titlist Vic Towell of South Africa today were named for Ring magazine's outstanding awards.

Charles was picked as the "fighter of the year," by Nat Fleischer, editor of boxing's bible. Sugar Ray was honored with a special citation as "best all-around fighter in any division." However, who dethroned Manuel Ortiz, was selected for the "progress of the year" trophy.

Rex Layne, the sturdy, young Lewiston, Utah, heavyweight who upset Jersey Joe Walcott, was runner-up to Towell in the "progress" department.

Fleischer placed Robinson second to Charles "because his influence on the boxing situation was not equal to that represented by Charles' surprisingly easy success against Joe Louis."

The editor cited Charles' meritorious war record and sincerity in pointing out that achievements outside the ring were important factors.

In his annual ratings, Fleischer named Louis as the No. 1 contender despite a "mediocre showing" against Argentina's Cesar Brion. Behind Louis he picked Lee Savold as No. 2 and Joey Maxim, the light heavyweight champion, as No. 3.

All eight champions are recognized as tops in their divisions by Fleischer.

After analyzing boxing's ills and shortcomings, Fleischer advocated the "elimination of all hoodlums and their influence; more intelligent and more liberal matchmaking; encouragement of younger boxers and more intelligent and realistic evaluation of the hazards of television."

Despite his death following a knockout loss to Percy Bassett, Al (Sonny Boy) West was ranked sixth among the lights.

"He had a good record during 1950 and well deserved his ranking," said Fleischer.

Hoosiers Top Dog In Big 10 Cage World

CHICAGO — (P)—Three Western conference teams enter holiday basketball tournaments this week in final tuneups for the Big Ten title struggle, but most of the spotlight shifts to the Indiana-Bradley tussle of unbeaten giants tomorrow night.

Upholding Big Ten prestige more than any other team thus far has been Indiana. The Hoosiers won the annual four-team meet at Butler Saturday night with a 64-56 decision over Notre Dame to stretch their undefeated mark through six games.

Indiana must face Bradley on the Braves' home court—a tough assignment. The Peoria outfit has won all its nine starts, eight of them being at home, and has averaged 84.4 points per game. The Braves used 16 players Saturday in frolicking over previously unbeaten Duke, 93-58.

Open With Backeyes

After Bradley, the Hoosiers invade Drake at Des Moines Friday, then polish up for their Big Ten opener at Ohio State Jan. 6.

The Big Ten race officially starts Monday with Illinois going to Wisconsin. Michigan is at Purdue Tuesday, then all teams open fire on the following Saturday, Jan. 6.

In other games last Saturday Purdue downed Butler 65-39, Iowa wrecked UCLA 80-63, Minnesota topped Oklahoma 49-42, and Ohio State shoved St. Louis from the unbeaten ranks 65-55.

Big Ten teams now are hitting 611 against outside opposition with 33 victories against 21 losses.

Only other undefeated conference club besides Indiana is Michigan State. Illinois and Minnesota each has one less while Northwestern, Ohio State and Iowa each has two.

Four Team Meet

Michigan State, with three wins, is host to a four-team meet Friday and Saturday. The Spartans face Penn State opening night while Ohio State tangles with Princeton. They change foes Saturday.

A doubleheader program is at Marquette Thursday. Northwest clashes with the Hilltoppers while Iowa takes on Loyola of Chicago on the same bill.

Minnesota enters the rugged holiday tourney at Kansas City, playing Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. It's first foe is Colorado.

The remainder of the week's schedule includes:

Wednesday—Michigan at Penn; Thursday—DePaul at Illinois; San Jose State at Wisconsin; Friday—Butler at Illinois; Bradley at Sugar bowl meet; Saturday—Pitt at Iowa, Western Reserve at Michigan, Notre Dame at Northwestern; Bradley at Sugar bowl.

High averages: Shirley Stoll, 140; Helen Costley, 140; Dorothy Bjorkquist, 136; Margaret Beauchamp, 134; Blanche Christie, 132; Frances Boyle, 132; Marge Belanger, 132.

Marquette Sentinels Bring Fast Team To Meet Hawks Tomorrow

Another whirlwind contest is in store for local hockey fans when the ew Escanaba Hawks take on the Marquette Sentinels in a Northern Wisconsin - Michigan league game at fairgrounds rink here tomorrow night. The opening faceoff will be at 8:15 p. m.

The Hawks will hold a fast but short scrimmage and practice session at 7:30 tonight.

In addition to Ted and Marc Olson, who moved here today from Marquette, the Hawks will have Fred and Chuck LaLonde of the American Soo, Ben and Julius Artwick, the Stambaugh brother combination, and Guy Poce and Leighton Haug, two 19-year-old Virginia, Minn., players who are here for a tryout.

Light But Fast

Haug and Poce are light but fast and good stick handlers. They worked out here last Friday, and will be seen in game action here tomorrow night for the first time.

Escanaba and Gladstone standbys again will see action.

The Sentinels have been hard hit by injuries and a three-week suspension slapped on Julian VanOverloop, veteran wing, for hitting the referee (on purpose), but they can always be depended upon to present a strong lineup and play a bangup game.

Either Bud Sweeney or Fred Hansen will start in the Marquette nets, with Jud Cole, Clarence Matt, Arne Ellsworth and Bill Reynolds handling the defense and Roy Olson, Johnny Vasseau and Bob Marlowe on the first line.

Another Olson

Roy is a brother of Marc and Ted Olson, the new Escanaba players. Another Olson brother, Weldon, is a member of the Sentinels but currently is recuperating from a broken collarbone suffered in practice. Another fast Marquette line is composed of Bob Wanberg, Richie Marlowe and Dick Wanberg.

Howell Police Chief Irked When Governor Speeds Through Town

HOWELL, Mich.—(P)—A small town police chief charged that Governor Williams' car rocketed through his bailiwick at more than double the legal speed limit Thursday night.

"I'm hot under the collar," said Chief of Police R. D. Risdon of Howell. "We try to do our job here on enforcing speed limits and I don't like it. A public official is supposed to set a good example in things like that."

Risdon said Patrolman Robert O'Dell clocked the governor's car at 100 miles an hour in a 45-mile an hour zone.

Bodyguard Driving
Asked if he intended to seek a warrant, Risdon commented: "I think it's better for me to attempt any legal action."

The alleged incident occurred when Sgt. George Kerr, Williams' driver and bodyguard, was driving the governor from Detroit to Lansing last night.

Kerr said he drove through Howell at the legal rate of speed of 25 miles an hour and "picked up speed outside of Howell and was going maybe 80 or 85 miles an hour."

The Howell police car, driven by O'Dell, chased the governor's car along US-16 until the big Cadillac stopped for a light at Fowlerville.

"Then," said Kerr, "he drew alongside. I waved at him and he waved back. Then he wheeled around and drove back in the direction of Howell. That's all there was to it."

Streets Crowded
Said the governor: "The first I knew I heard a siren behind us in Fowlerville. The car drew alongside and then made a U turn and disappeared."

"The fact is," said Chief Risdon, "that my officer was two blocks from the main section of town when he spotted the car going at a high rate of speed. He was exceeding the legal speed limit inside the town limits too. A basketball game had just let out and the streets were crowded with kids."

Risdon said his officer did not know it was the governor's car and that he gave up the chase because he had instructions to follow routine speed cases—only a certain distance from Howell.

Risdon said his officer claimed the governor's car also swerved over a yellow line on top of a hill.

"If the governor had to get some place in a hurry he could have had a police escort," said the chief.
